

Jeannie Sgro

About Jeannie Sgro

Jeannie was Turnstyles Ticketing's first employee. In building an organization based on technology and customer service, hers is perhaps the most critical role. Jeannie has provided Turnstyles with a solid technology foundation given her vast experiences with ticketing systems and telecommunications integration and the role they play in customer care.

Sgro's primary responsibilities include the daily operations of maintaining all of the ticketing systems used at Turnstyles, maintaining the telephony system and other applications that are used by our staff to successfully produce positive results for our clients and their customers.

Jeannie brings 17 years of industry experience to Turnstyles and is truly an asset to the success of the company.

Sgro brought with her a wealth of ticketing knowledge having installed the Paciolan system while with the Cleveland Browns in 1999 and has since become recognized as one of the leading experts on the application of Paciolan software in the country.

Prior to her position with the Cleveland Browns, Jeannie worked as a Season Subscription Coordinator for the Cleveland Cavaliers in 1998.

Jeannie started her experience in the industry with the Philadelphia Eagles in Ticket Sales.

Sgro completed her Undergrad at LaSalle University in 1992, and Graduate in Sports Management from Temple University in 1994.

She, and her husband Chris D'Andrea reside in Lebanon, New Jersey.
